Telephones in all Copper
Country Towns.CHINESE ARE PREPARING TO CELEBRATE THEIR NEW YEAR

The local Chinese contingent is making preparations for celebrating the Chinese New Year, which falls next Sunday, January 29. A great many invitations to outside Chinamen have been issued by the leading Chinese of the city. There will be "something doing" in the "Joy" line, as the Chinamen will vie with each other in making things enjoyable.

The hospitality of the Chinese during their New Year's season has become proverbial. In San Francisco's Chinese quarters the Celestials go the limit and, besides free and lavishly spread banquet boards, they endeavor to send the lid sky high with a ceaseless and costly explosion of fireworks. Along Mott street in New York much the same custom prevails, only it is not so widely distributed.

In Texas—down along "the river"—about ten years ago there were two Chinamen in a population of about 700 people, 200 of which were "greasers." One "Chink" conducted a restaurant and fed wayward cowpunchers, while the other washed and darned their socks. Trade at the one was never what could be called brisk, while at the other it was simply "rotten."

In spite of this, though, both the almost-eye worshippers of Confucius managed to eke out a living and each helped to prolong his life by cultivating a dexterity in dodging bullets playfully aimed at their feet.

Whatever turn the various persecutions had taken against them, though, all were annually forgotten and forgiven as the Chinese calendar began squaring itself away for a new start and both queue-cultivating would-be voters united in dispensing true Chinese hospitality.

Principally Ham and Eggs.

The markets in that locality never were known to be glutted with beef, no more than a cow-ranch is overburdened with fresh milk, so they had to confine themselves mostly to ham and eggs. There was never any choice on the part of the cow-punchers, though, as long as the hosts didn't ring in beans on them, and just at dusk when the soft patter of the felt-shod feet were heard outside the door of the Buckhorn saloon there was a general scraping of chairs, straightening of limbs and loosening of belt and "char" buckles.

Upon the invitation being extended, there would be a pell-mell rush to the restaurant next door from then on till midnight, and often longer there would be some high old times within its four walls. The way these range-riding punchers would tie into that great and varied assortment of ham and eggs, French fried potatoes, "light" bread, flap-jacks and coffee was something to warm the heart of an idol itself, let alone the idol's worshiper, while the two hosts were smiles that refused to come off and which seemed to dispense cheerfulness and amiability as freely as the wearers dispensed examples of the cooking art.

The cow punchers would be there from miles around and all former enmities and hostilities would be buried for the time being. They gorged themselves until they could hold no more, sent for a couple of barrels of beer, got the Chinamen drunk, and then tried to blow the town up. Next day they would ride away into the distant rim of the horizon and remain there a month or more. Returning, the hatchet would again be taken up, and from then on till the next New Year the Chinamen would be kept busy wondering how they managed to remain on earth so long.

MOHAWK NEWS NOTES.

Capt. Arthur Williams called on friends in Mohawk Sunday.

The Mohawk fire department will give a skating party in the Glaciadom Thursday, February 2.

The fight for trusteeship of Allouez township promises to be a spirited contest, no less than five having openly announced their candidacy and it is known that one or two others are considering the advisability of entering the race. Three of the candidates are residents of Mohawk, while two others are Ahmeek citizens. Those from Mohawk are L. E. Gummerous, bookkeeper of the Keweenaw Savings Bank, Christopher Trovarrow and John Nordstrom, and Wm. Reilly and John Falby of Ahmeek.

Matthew Bylka of Allouez has announced his candidacy for overseer of highways. About four years ago Mr. Bylka had charge of this work and he did it to the satisfaction of the residents of the township. It is stated that Mr. Bylka will have opposition for this office.

RED METAL HOMESTEAD OF
YEOMEN HAS LARGE CLASS

Preparations are being made by the members of Red Metal Homestead No. 2238, Brotherhood of American Yeomen for a big initiatory meeting to be held some time during the month of February when a large class of candidates will be initiated. Mrs. Carrie Reeves, district manager of the order is at present in this city and is helping the local members to organize the class. It is expected that several visiting members will be present on the evening of the initiation ceremonies.

According to Mrs. Reeves, the order at large was never in better condition than at present. The financial report just issued shows that the reserve fund amounts to $1,560,614.26; the benefit fund, $52,290.68 and the general fund, $134,923.27, making a total in the treasury of $1,747,828.21, an increase since Jan. 1, 1910 of $265,155.63. The claims paid by the order at large last year amounted to $15,794,189.92.

Mrs. Reeves talks entertainingly of her work throughout the upper peninsula and states that she is meeting with the utmost success everywhere. The order combines life and accident benefits and other insurance.
